IQAC initiated National Level Webinar on “E-Survey: A Tool for Data Collection” Online survey or internet survey is one of the most popular data-collection sources, where a set of survey questions is sent out to a target sample and the members of this sample can respond to the questions over the web. Respondents receive online surveys via various mediums such as email, embedded over website, social media etc.

The primary reason for the growth seen in the implementation of online survey is that they are extremely low cost and conducting an online survey is convenient due to the sheer magnitude of reach. Over the past decade, researchers have started preferring conducting surveys using an online survey tool as they can send out surveys from the desktops or laptops and their target audience can respond to these surveys whenever possible.

Google Forms is free online software that allows you to create surveys, quizzes and its part of Google's web-based apps suite, including Google Docs, Google Sheets, Google Slides, and more. Now days it's most popular tool for data collection, so that to know the process of Google form is very essential for research.
