Report on Gender & Composite Culture

IQAC initiated the Department of PG Studies in commerce organized one day work shop on Gender & Composite Culture Program for M.com Students for the academic batch 2019-20 was held in Lecture Hall 8 02-11-2019 at 11:30AM. The Formal Inaugural Session started with welcome address to Resource person, Principal, IQAC Co-coordinator, Faculties, & Students by Dr Kittu R S.

Resource Person: Ms. Jeevitha

The resource person Ms. Jeevitha addressed the students; Culture and gender are closely intertwined with biological factors creating predispositions for sex and gender development. However, sociocultural factors are critical determinants leading to gender differences in roles and behaviours that may be modest but culturally important. Culture has profound effects on gender-related behaviour, values, identity, roles, and how these are regarded in various social contexts. Culture governs the socialization of children, the tasks children are taught, the roles adult men and women adopt, and the expectations that govern women's and men's attitudes and behaviours. Culture provides the context in which gender roles, identity, and stereotypes unfold as well as parameters regarding sexual behaviour. Culture affects variation in gender-related behaviours between individuals within a cultural group as well as variation between cultures. Culture can maximize, minimize, or even eliminate gender differences in social behaviours and cognitions. Indeed, it is impossible to separate gender and culture.
