We have all heard the words “diversity, equity and inclusion,” but what do they mean in an academic setting. Let’s break them down.

Equity is distinguished from equality in that fairness is achieved by taking a student's starting point into account. This means providing the specified support and resources necessary for students to achieve success based on individual need.

Diversity must be promoted in order to achieve a positive, harmonious academic setting. This refers to all students, regardless of race, sexual orientation, socioeconomic class or physical ability.

Inclusion is the celebration and appreciation of all experiences and perspectives, with the expected result of an environment that feels inviting and open for all.

At the end of the session the students cleared their doubts by asking various questions regarding the confusions.

The program ended with a powerful vote of thanks by Smt Mahananda Chithwadagi Madam.

Scientific temperament refers to an individual's attitude of logical and rational thinking. An individual is considered to have scientific temper if s/he employs a scientific method of decision-making in everyday life. The term was first coined by India's first Prime Minister, Jawaharlal Nehru, in his book 'The Discovery of India'.

"A Statement on Scientific Temper" prepared by a group of scholars and issued on behalf of the Nehru Centre, Bombay, in July 1981, mentions that "Scientific Temper involves the acceptance, amongst others, on the following premises:

- The method of science provides a viable method of acquiring knowledge;
- The human problems can be understood and solved in terms of knowledge gained through the application of the method of science;
- The fullest use of the method of science in everyday life and in every aspect of human endeavour from ethics to politics and economics is essential for ensuring human survival and progress; and
- That one should accept knowledge gained through the application of the method of science as the closest approximation of truth at that time and question what is incompatible with such knowledge; and that one should from time to time re-examine the basic foundations of contemporary knowledge."
